
Same 16 normal-condition inputs. Right: average each sample's tokens first, then compare those means.
These are representation measurements, not measures of physical correctness or generation quality.